

Company Position in relation to the Global Coronavirus outbreak

We would like to take this opportunity to re-assure our customers we are monitoring the impact of the recent outbreak of the coronavirus through our supply chain.

Health and Safety of our employees is our primary concern and we have implemented all recommended precautions.

We would like to inform all our customers, partners and suppliers that JA Harrison Ltd (Manchester) and Alliance and Heatshield (Cardiff) production facilities are fully operational.

JA Harrison Ltd has implemented a Pandemic Action Team, to enable us to actively monitor and react according to current situations of the Coronavirus outbreak.

JA Harrison cannot account for what may well be a market shortage of materials, as we are seeing and do expect there to be increased demand for products. We will continue to actively work with and monitor our suppliers to ensure we maintain and build our material, product and supplier resilience.

We will always try to prioritise supplies to our existing loyal customer base, however practically this can be difficult to do.

We would recommend that you speak with our sales and technical teams to ensure that we are aware of your requirements and technical alternatives over the next few weeks and months and further request that you place forward schedules where practicable.

The situation is constantly changing and therefore deliveries may be delayed due to local restrictions. We will inform you immediately if any problems regarding the delivery schedule or other relevant information become known

Despite the unusual developments, we remain positive in our attitude, trusting that we will all come through this extraordinary challenge well. You can support us in our efforts to secure delivery by respecting the agreed payment terms. Many thanks in advance for your support.

If you have any further questions, do not hesitate to contact us,

Keith Shepherd
